

(b) What Gaussian shape would make it easiest to calculate the flux coming from the wire?

(c) Consider now a finite wire carrying a net positive charge. Why would calculating the flux coming from a finite wire more difficult than an infinite wire?

3. What is the net flux coming out of an electric dipole?